

Dear students!

You were chosen to participate in the youth delegations and represent the city of Jerusalem around the world.

This is a great privilege for you, and a tremendous opportunity to experience other cultures, and meet new friends and acquaintances.

In the normal times the mission was done in distant places and in other countries, but even in the present time, it is possible to "discover the world" through technology.

The new connection you are about to experience is a wonderful preparation for a world of innovation and creativity, and I am sure you will enjoy and get the most out of the experience from an academic, leadership and social point of view.

I wish you great success. Represent us with pride.

Regards,

Moshe Lion

Mayor of Jerusalem

Dear students!

Embarking on a journey entails challenges and opportunities. The Coronavirus crisis has proved that humanity faces more issues in common than we ever imagined: health, climate and environmental challenges, water scarcity and food security. All of these require international collaboration. Planting the seeds of these partnerships is in your hands. This is your opportunity to experience, share, ask the hard questions and learn about other cultures. As someone who grew up in a diverse society, I see great importance in getting out of our comfort zone. This is the moment to take pride in your city, one of the most important cities in human history and represent us as ambassadors.

Good luck we are behind you!

Fleur Hassan-Nahoum,
Deputy Mayor Of Jerusalem

Dear participants,

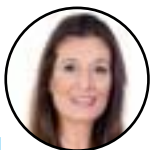

Following our annual tradition, the Jerusalem Municipality is happy to hold youth delegations between Jerusalem and the world in order to deepen your acquaintances, expand your horizons, expose you to different cultures, connect worlds and enjoy shared experiences together.

In this special year, the program will be carried out in a different and unusual way. Because of - and perhaps thanks to the coronavirus - you are the first to experience Jerusalem in an interesting and innovative way with digital tools that will make it possible to have an online youth delegation that may be far from each other -but feel close.

In a world where partitions are descending, people are getting closer to each other and the amazing world of the one meets the amazing world of the other, We can hope and expect that it will lead to new ideas, creativity, partnerships and deep connections between people and countries.

I am sure that by taking part in this unique delegation you will be inspired by the city of Jerusalem and its residents.

We hope to see you all soon in the city of Jerusalem.

Ariela Rejwan

Executive Director for Culture, Sport and Community
Enrichment Programs

Dear students and education staff,

We are happy and excited to present to you the online delegation program "MY WORLD MEET'S YOURS" which starts now!

The Department of Delegations and International Relations has been responsible for the youth delegations' exchanges for years. This year, we were faced with the challenge of social distancing which gave us an opportunity to think, produce and reinvent ourselves. Especially now that the world is getting smaller but also farther away, it is our time to meet and get to know each other.

In six fascinating and attractive online sessions, you will learn about yourself, others and your connection to the city of Jerusalem. As future leaders, I sincerely hope that this program will give you the tools and life skills to build a more tolerant, inclusive and loving world.

Before we start, it's important for me to thank you.

First, thank you students, for the courage to meet online and get to know the world in this challenging way.

Thank you to the educational teams who believed in this project as we did and cooperated with us completely in order to let you discover the world even during this period.

Thank you to Sylvie Rozenbaum, who was responsible for the project, she believed in it from the beginning to the end.

Thank you to Tamar Gedaliahu who was in charge of the logistical operations of this project. Thank you to Ariella Rejwan, Fleur Hassan-Nahoum for backing up and supporting the project.

We invite you to step out of your comfort zone, because this is the best way to discover new things about yourself!

Fasten your seatbelts. Come on, we're off! Good luck and most importantly, enjoy,
